To whom it may concern:

Tucson Medical Center has had a consistently good relationship with Southwest Hazard Control (SHC) for many, many years. They have provided timely response in our times of need. As a large community hospital most of our calls for help are based on providing a safe environment of care for our patients and staff. Delays in response by more than a few hours are often not acceptable. SHC provides timely response to our needs at all hours of the day and 365 days per year.

SHC also provides workers with high levels of knowledge and skill that are required to meet our high expectations on a regular basis. One of the most remarkable attributes SHC has shown constantly over the years is a very low attrition rate with their staff. We have tried other companies that send a new supervisor, manager or crew every time they are called in. With SHC we know who will be doing the work and we are confident that the work will be done right the first time.

SHC is a great example of a company that repeatedly gets the job done on time and within budget. The management staffs at SHC are focused and provide job crews that know how to work together as a team. And they know how to work safety in a hospital environment. I would strongly recommend SHC to anyone in a healthcare setting.
